

Records Relating to Railroads in the Cartographic Section of the National Archives

This reference information paper describes records in the Cartographic Section at the National Archives in College Park, MD, that relate to railroads. Over 70 years ago, the National Archives began publishing reference information papers (RIPs) as part of a comprehensive descriptive program designed to provide researchers with concise information about Federal records relating to specific topics of interest.

We've started our countdown to National Handbag Day on October 10, and that means we'll have special features for you every day, right up to the big event! Today, we're here to talk about the intersection of celebrity and accessories, and more specifically, how the two can become intertwined in public consciousness for years. The kinds of stars who carry a particular bag do a lot to shape the market's perception of it and the designer who created it, which is why so many brands give out free bags to stars now: they're hoping to create positive associations. In the cases you see below, though, things came along a little bit more naturally. You can't rush love, after all. Think of a bag-celeb duo we missed? Let us know in the comments!
