

Waiting in the Other Room

Has a loved one died, but you feel they are still with you? Is your brain telling you they are gone, but your heart tells you they are still here? Do you have a loved one who can no longer communicate with you due to Dementia or Alzheimers? Kathryn's dad, Big Jim died on Halloween in 2005. With humor and love she shares the creative ways he has shown her that he is still here. Their experiences will validate your deceased loved one is as close as a thought albeit in another form - spirit. Their story of continued communication demystifies the fears of the physical body dying. Kathryn also shares her experiences of communicating with her grandfathers higher self while he was living with dementia along with the method she used. The knowing of your heart isn't wrong... If you are looking for validation and tools to communicate with a deceased loved one or loved ones with Dementia, then you have been divinely guided to Waiting in the Other Room.

We've started our countdown to National Handbag Day on October 10, and that means we'll have special features for you every day, right up to the big event! Today, we're here to talk about the intersection of celebrity and accessories, and more specifically, how the two can become intertwined in public consciousness for years. The kinds of stars who carry a particular bag do a lot to shape the market's perception of it and the designer who created it, which is why so many brands give out free bags to stars now: they're hoping to create positive associations. In the cases you see below, though, things came along a little bit more naturally. You can't rush love, after all. Think of a bag-celeb duo we missed? Let us know in the comments!
