

Bootstrap Leadership: 50 Ways to Break Out, Take Charge, and Move Up

Leadership training can be inconsistent in the best of times, and in tough economic times its often one of the first things that even the most progressive companies cut back. Nor can you depend on finding that mentor youve been hoping for. So now more than ever, if youre going to advance your career you need to lift yourself up by your bootstraps. But not entirely: Steve Arneson is here to give you a boost. In Bootstrap Leadership, Arneson, one of Americas top leadership coaches, offers a complete blueprint for designing your own personal leadership development program. In fifty brief, to-the-point chapters he provides creative and practical ideas that have been proven successful in his work with executives at Fortune 500 companies like AOL, PepsiCo and Capital One. But, surprisingly, these ideas cost nothing or next to nothing to implement, nor do they require any elaborate equipment or infrastructuretheyre open to anyone with sufficient initiative, drive and ambition. No one is going to just give you that next promotion--you have to develop yourself, and earn it. Bootstrap Leadership shows you how.

We've started our countdown to National Handbag Day on October 10, and that means we'll have special features for you every day, right up to the big event! Today, we're here to talk about the intersection of celebrity and accessories, and more specifically, how the two can become intertwined in public consciousness for years. The kinds of stars who carry a particular bag do a lot to shape the market's perception of it and the designer who created it, which is why so many brands give out free bags to stars now: they're hoping to create positive associations. In the cases you see below, though, things came along a little bit more naturally. You can't rush love, after all. Think of a bag-celeb duo we missed? Let us know in the comments!
